BURLINGTON MONTHLY STATISTICS PACKAGE JULY 2023

Burlington Monthly Statistical Report - July 2023

SUMMARY

The sales-to-new listings ratio eased in July to 61 per cent, with 326 new listings and 198 sales. The sales-to-new listings ratio was lower in July than in June, which supported some gains in inventory levels. However, inventory levels are still 27 per cent lower than levels reported from last July.

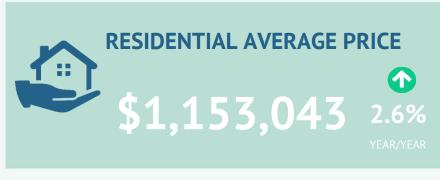

Like other areas within the RAHB market area, the months of supply have risen over the last month. Despite this, the Burlington region faces the tightest conditions, with under two months of supply reported in July. The unadjusted benchmark price in July was $1,070,100, a modest decline over last month, but over two per cent higher than last July.

PROPERTY TYPES

Gains in the higher-density property types offset year-over-year declines in detached sales. Meanwhile, inventory levels declined over last year across all property types. Adjustments to sales and inventory levels kept the months of supply lower than last year across all property types, despite monthly gains in the detached, row and apartment sectors.

Over the last month, the unadjusted benchmark price trended down in the detached, semi-detached and row sectors. The apartment sector reported modest gains. Despite the monthly improvements, the apartment sector is the only property type that reported prices below last year's levels.

BENCHMARK PRICE

REGIONAL SUMMARY

Year-to-date sales have improved in the Burlington 30, 31, and 36 areas. However, the improvement was not enough to offset declines in the remainder of the region. Inventory levels also reported some divergent trends, with year-over-year gains occurring in Burlington 30, 36 and 38 areas. While the months of supply have trended up compared to June across all areas, only Burlington 34 and 36 have reported higher levels than July 2022.

While the region reported a slight decline in the monthly unadjusted benchmark price, prices trended up over last month in Burlington 30, 32, 33 and 38. Overall benchmark prices remain higher than July 2022 in all regions except Burlington 31 and 36.
